

More players. Better field days.

Bunkr helps paintball players find fields, share when they plan to play, and connect with other players before game day.

Current app layout. Screenshots use illustrative fields and demo players.

For players

Find a field, choose a day and arrival window, and see who plans to come. Join as a Walk-On, Team, or Group and choose the type of play you want.

For field owners

Explore player interest for your field and help regulars coordinate. Daily totals, ranked team lists, player profiles, and chat make the plans easier to understand.

Try Bunkr in your browser.

SCAN TO TRY

Get started in minutes.

Sign in, choose your country, find your field, and save it so you can return quickly.

01 / SIGN IN

Current iPhone login with Google sign-in.

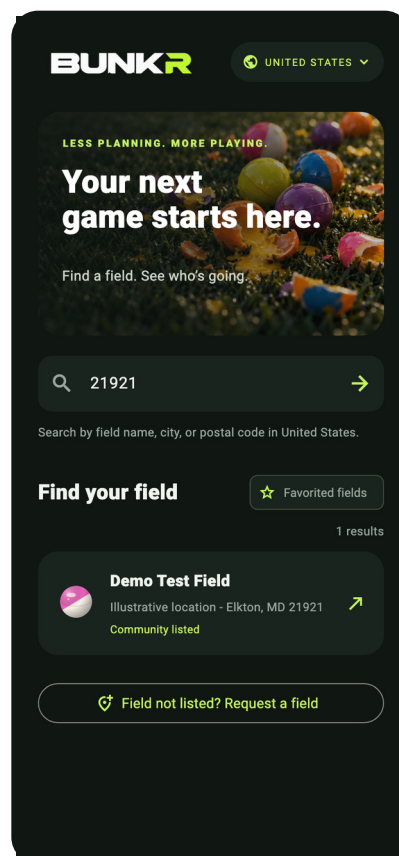

Google or email

Open app.bunkrpb.com. Tap Continue with Google, or choose Create an account to use email and password. New players choose a unique username.

One account, your devices

The web and mobile apps use the same account and plans. Remember me keeps you signed in on a personal device. Sign out on shared devices.

02 / FIND YOUR FIELD

Illustrative field discovery on a phone.

Search and favorite

Choose the country, then search by field name, city, or postal / ZIP code. Open a field and tap its outlined star to favorite it. Favorited fields shows your saved list.

Keep a useful default

Your country selection is remembered. In Player, save a private postal / ZIP code for that country. You can change the search location whenever you like.

Make a plan. Read the day.

Open a field, choose a day, and tap I'm playing this day. Use My days to reopen, edit, or cancel your plans.

Times are local to the field (America/New_York).

Saving replaces your existing check-in on each selected day. This is a plan, not a booking.

Confirm check-in

Example team check-in: Demo Nova, D3.

Choose your visit

Select Walk-On, Team, or Group. Choose Speedball, Woodsball, or Mix, then set the play dates and arrival / departure times. Times use the field's local time zone. Tap Confirm check-in to save.

One check-in for a roster

Teams add a name, ranking, and player count. Groups add a size and optional name. One representative registers the party; teammates should not also check in for the same roster.

Players versus check-ins

Expected players include team and group sizes. In the demo, 20 check-ins represent 55 players: 12 walk-ons, 5 teams, and 3 groups. Play-style counts include those party sizes too.

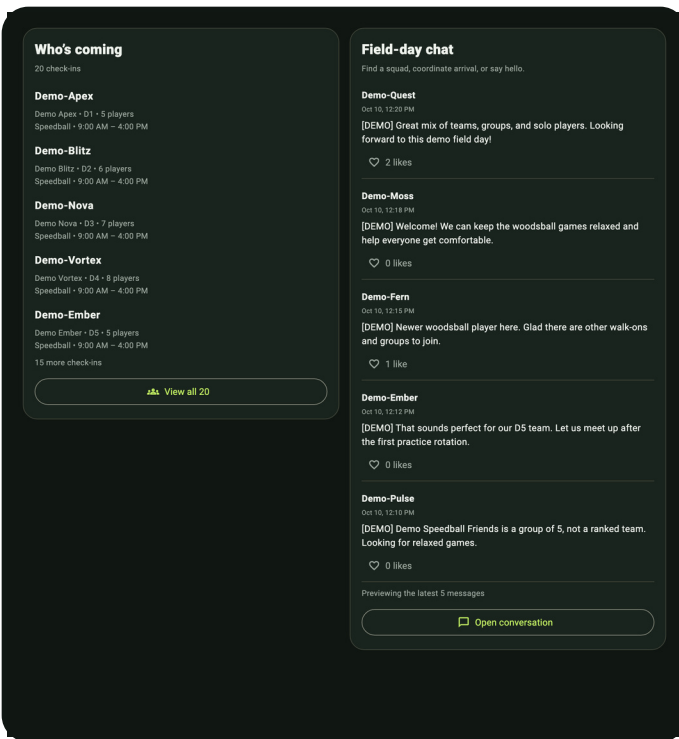

See teams by division

Tap the daily Teams count to open the ranked list: Pro, Semi Pro, D1-D5, then Unranked. Divisions are self-reported by the team representative.

Short previews. Full conversations.

The field-day page stays manageable while the complete attendance list and conversation are one tap away.

05 / WHO'S COMING

Current tablet layout. On phones, these cards stack.

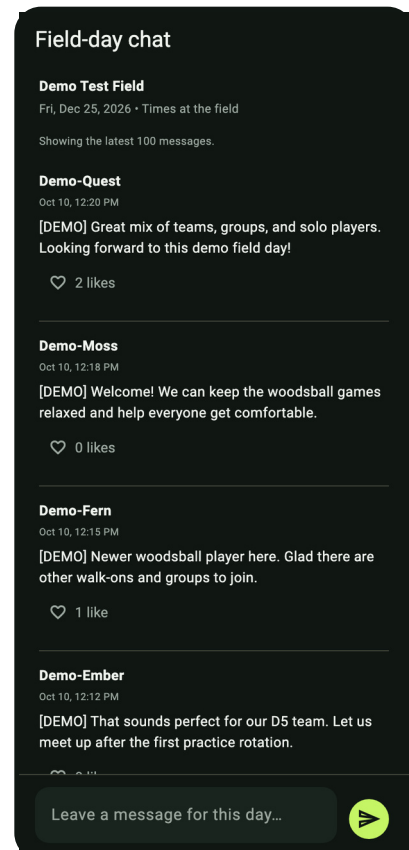

Find the people coming

Who's coming previews up to five check-ins. Tap View all for the full attendance list. Tap a username to open the player's shared profile; use the team list for ranked rosters.

Keep the field day compact

Field-day chat previews the latest five messages. Tap Open conversation to read and participate in the full chat for that field and date.

06 / OPEN CONVERSATION

Newest messages at the top; older messages below.

Read and reply

The newest message is at the top. Scroll down for older messages. The message input stays at the bottom. Post arrival plans, matchup ideas, or an invitation to join your group.

React without clutter

Tap the heart to like or unlike a message. Likes show reactions, not who has read the message. Players can delete their own messages; staff can remove inappropriate content.

Find players who fit your day.

Add optional profile details so other players can find teammates, extra players, and people interested in the same style of play.

Email and postal / ZIP code are not shown to other players. Name, age, experience, ranking, and play preference are self-reported and visible to signed-in players when shared.

Missing a field? Help add it.

Google listings and approved community fields appear together in Bunkr. Unlisted and private venues can be submitted for review.

A screenshot of a mobile app interface titled "Request a field" with a close button (X) in the top right. Below the title is a subtitle: "Know a field that is missing? Send it for admin review. Approved listings are visible to Bunkr players." The form contains several input fields: "Field name" with the text "Example private field"; a country selector showing "United States"; "Address or location" with "Example address, Elkton"; "City or area" with "Elkton"; "Postal code (optional)" with "21921". There is a toggle switch for "Private field" which is currently turned on, with a note: "Private field. Players must contact the owner for permission." Below this is a section titled "TYPE OF PLAY" with four buttons: "Speedball", "Woodball", "Scenario", and "Magfed". At the bottom is a field for "Hours (optional)".

Try the demo first

Search Demo Test Field in the United States and choose December 25, 2026. The Demo- usernames and [DEMO] comments are examples, not a scheduled event. Use the test field for pretend plans.

Plans, not reservations. Check-ins do not guarantee attendance, entry, availability, or a booked session. Contact the field to confirm hours, fees, and any reservation requirements.

Request an unlisted field

Below the field results, tap Field not listed? Request a field. Add its name, country, address / location, city, and play types. Hours and postal code are optional. Private fields require contact / permission instructions.

Approval and permission

Confirm permission to publish the information, then submit it for admin review. Approved fields support search, favorites, check-ins, and chat. A private listing is visible to Bunkr players; it is not an invitation to enter. Contact the owner before visiting.

A simple field-owner pilot

Sign in as a normal player, find your field, and check the listing. Try the demo, then invite regulars to plan real visits. Bunkr currently has no dedicated field-owner dashboard or booking management.

Feedback that helps

Discovery: Can players find the right field and country?

Planning: Are dates, times, counts, teams, and groups clear?

Coordination: Do profiles and chat help find other players?

Issues: Send the field, date, device / browser, steps, and a screenshot to the person who invited you.
